Academic Integrity Self-Evaluation Tool for Students (AISETS)

Background

- Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) are in need of having efficient tools which would help them monitor and reflect upon current status of academic integrity as well as possible further implications either for improvement or prevention of academic misconduct.
- European Network for Academic Integrity (ENAI) constructed four Self-Evaluation Tools targeted at different actors of HEIs including students, teachers, researchers, and institutions.
- The tools were developed by an international interdisciplinary team based on previously developed survey tools, relevant literature and experience of team members.

The purpose of Self-Evaluation Tool for Students

Academic Integrity Self-Evaluation Tool for Students (AISETS) has been developed to help students evaluate their own knowledge, attitudes and skills regarding academic integrity. It aims to serve as a tool for students enabling to assess their current status and identify potential areas for development. It does not only provide an opportunity for students to reflect upon their own study approach and skills but also supports them with some guidance to expand their knowledge and skills.

The tool is designed for personal use of each student and it is completely their own decision whether to make use of this tool or not.

Content of AISETS

AISETS is a questionnaire-based tool constituting of self-evaluation questions in three sections. Students' responses to each question are scored and linked to feedback. In addition to question-based score and feedback, every student also receives an overall score and feedback for the tool. Provided feedback highlights potential risks or issues; encourages to seek for help or additional learning; suggests useful sources, and also praises students when they score well.
